Regal Rany

Barely 28, Rany Moran is already owner of a television station in Batam and partner of a fashion label. And she is looking forward to launching yet another fashion project. The mass communications master's degree graduate holds it all together with impeccable poise, and still cuts a fine figure, even though she has just given birth last year. She moved to Singapore with her British expat husband, Colin Moran, just two years ago, while her parents — an export businessman father and a garment businesswoman mother — are back home in Indonesia. In this spread inspired by the colours of India, the sporting dame plays the maharani or queen for us.
